

Schedule a Message

WHEN YOU SEND IS VERY IMPORTANT

Master the art of communication.

Scheduling is one of the most important, yet overlooked, options when sending messages. For best results, we suggest you schedule your message to send either in the morning or in the evening. These are the times when people are most available and open to receiving messages.

It makes sense when you think about it. People more available in the evenings as they wind down from the day. They are less likely to be at work, in meetings, driving around town, etc...

Start scheduling your message today by following these easy steps.

STEP BY STEP – schedule a message

1. Craft a message using the composer or designer.
2. Preview the message.
3. Click on Send.
4. Click on Schedule Message.
5. Enter Date and Time or select a general time for the following day.
6. Click on Schedule Message.

Your message is now scheduled to send!
